How to identify the Best New Betting Sites 2024 Finding the best new sports betting sites demands thorough research. In the following sections, we guide you through this process, providing valuable insights into how we identify and rank the top new UK betting sites. Check for a licence Before you register at any new UK bookmakers, make sure they are licensed by the UK Gambling Commission. This ensures the new bookmaker is regulated, legal and secure. You can check for a licence on the site's footer, or by searching for the company on the UKGC's online register. You can be safe in the knowledge that all new gambling sites recommended on this page are UKGC-licensed. Review betting markets New sports betting sites should provide a range of markets. This means offering betting options on a variety of sports, leagues and events. Aside from the obvious UK favourites like football, horse racing, tennis, golf and cricket, there should also be markets for politics, TV shows, American sports and Esports. Compare betting odds The best new online bookmakers should offer competitive odds and this is one of the most important factors to consider when choosing a new bookie. Comparing odds across new betting sites is a key part of our review process. We also recommend doing your own odds research, tailored to the sports or markets you prefer to bet on. Compare promotions Promotions can add significant value to your betting experience. New bookies usually have welcome offers to attract new customers, such as free bets, boosted odds or cashback deals. A handy way to compare welcome offers is to view the list at the top of this page, where you'll find the value of each along with the key T&C's. Check the 'Our Picks' section above to learn about some of the best ongoing offers for existing customers. Check for payment options New UK sports betting sites should have a variety of secure and convenient payment options, from debit cards to e-wallets like PayPal, Skrill or Neteller. Bear in mind that some new bookie bonuses exclude e-wallet transactions. Additionally, withdrawal times should be quick, so you don't have to wait long for funds to land in your account. Trial customer support When reviewing new betting sites, we test their customer support teams by sending them a query. We note how quickly they respond and how helpful their answers are. Brand-new betting sites usually offer multiple support channels, including live chat, email, and phone support. Test mobile capabilities Test a new betting site on your phone to see if it's mobile-friendly. Some sites also offer dedicated new betting apps. Check the apps for user-friendly interfaces, smooth navigation and quick loading times. Some also have extra perks like app-specific offers and personalised notifications about big promotions or odds boosts. Research reputation A new betting site's reputation is an indicator of its reliability and fairness. When a site is brand-new its reputation is still being built, so we usually analyse the betting company that owns the site, as it often has a more established reputation. Researching online reviews and forum discussions is a good idea as you'll see what other bettors are saying about the new bookmaker. Be wary of sites with numerous complaints or unresolved issues. Trial live betting and streaming The best new betting sites offer live betting features like streaming, cash out options (so you can lock in profits or limit losses before an event ends) and live statistics that provide real-time data and analysis during a game. All of these features broaden your options and help you to make better bets when a game or event is in-play. Check for responsible gambling tools Responsible gambling is an essential aspect of any new betting site. Check if the site offers tools to help you gamble responsibly, such as deposit limits, time-outs, self-exclusion options and resources for problem gamblers. Remember, betting should always be considered a form of entertainment and not a means to make money.
