Preparativos en curso para el festival de arte contemporáneo en Bagdad

Un boulevard está cobrando vida en el Distrito de Bab al-Sharji en el centro de Bagdad, ya que los preparativos para un festival anual de arte contemporáneo van tomando forma. La ciudad ha sido largamente considerada una de las más peligrosas del mundo, pero los artistas del colectivo Tarkib desean mandar un mensaje diferente: que la capital está viva con creatividad y cultura. El evento, el cual comenzó cuando el colectivo fue fundado en 2024, consiste en la exhibición de obras en espacios públicos y un recorrido narrativo por la ciudad llamado Baghdad Walk. El festival de arte contemporáneo de Tarkib del próximo mes se titula "Hola Futuro!"

Obras que muestran el trauma de la guerra

Zeid Saad planea mostrar una instalación sobre bombas de racimo, las cuales, a pesar de estar prohibidas por más de 120 países, aún son utilizadas en conflictos hoy en día. Cuando él era niño, fueron usadas en Iraq y todavía recuerda cómo la forma era atractiva para los niños. "Las bombas de racimo sin explotar en el suelo de Iraq aún matan niños porque cuando las ven piensan que pueden jugar con ellas. Exhibiré una bomba de tamaño real de color rojo - color de la sangre - pero la forma del núcleo de la bomba será una burbuja, representando a los niños y sus sueños", él dice.

Esta pieza será acompañada por video arte de una artista iraní femenina sobre el mismo tema. Más de la mitad de los artistas, quienes han estado trabajando en sus obras por meses, son mujeres quienes encuentran en Tarkib una plataforma para la libertad de expresión.
