O que São Apostas Esportivas e Como Funcionam as Odds?

As apostas esportivas ganham popularidade a cada dia, mas o que exatamente significa isso?

Apostas esportivas podem ser consideradas como apostas na qual os indivíduos colocam suas estacas em competições e jogos esportivos. Cada apostador faz sports Ivbet seleção baseada em probabilidade, o que é mais conhecido como "odds".

As

odds

são usadas para estabelecer as probabilidades de um certo resultado ocorrer ou não. Elas demonstram as possibilidades de acertos para cada tipo de aposta.

Essas odds também demonstram o montante que pode ser ganho caso a aposta seja bem-sucedida.

Por exemplo, se você quiser fazer uma aposta de

$100

em um claro favorito com

+200

, então existem

300% de probabilidades

de que este claro favorito vença. Isso significa que você pode ganhar $300

($200 de lucro líquido mais o seu

investimento inicial de $100

), caso sports Ivbet aposta seja bem-sucedida.

Anteriormente, a

palavra "odds"

já significava "coisas desiguais ou não iguais," a partir de cerca de

1500

. Outros sentidos podem ter se desenvolvido a partir desse significado anterior.

O que significam as diferentes notações de Odds?

As

odds fracionárias identificam quantos ganhos potenciais serão recebidos em relação à aposta inicial. Por exemplo, uma cota de 7/1 significa que você receberá $7 para cada $1 que você aposta.

As

odds decimais

representam a quantidade total que o seu investimento original voltará. O número que você vê reflete, em média, o seu retorno potencial incluindo também o seu próprio investimento.

History [edit]

Poker has been appearing on television somewhat regularly since the late-1970s. In the United States, CBS started airing the final table of the World Series of Poker (WSOP) Main Event as an annual one-hour show around this time and later by ESPN, which were casino-produced shows produced under a time-buy arrangement for sports omnibus programming such as the CBS Sports Spectacular. For many years, the coverage was less than robust because viewers at home could not see what cards the players had or follow their progress visually through graphics. Instead, the coverage essentially involved the commentators guessing what cards the players had in a documentary style production.

In 1997, the hole cam, which allows audiences to see the hidden cards that players held in their hands, was introduced in Europe. The hole cam was patented by WSOP bracelet winner Henry Orenstein and first used in the Late Night Poker television series. It was used again in the inaugural Poker Million tournament in 2000 which boasted the attraction of the first £1,000,000 poker game on live television. By 1996, however, the ESPN one-hour highlight show only included hands that were shown down, so that the commentators, including Gabe Kaplan, could comment, in post-production, on the hands while they were being played out. The commentators referred to this as "taking a peek at the cards", and provided the first contemporary announcing on hands during the play in poker history. By 2001, however, Late Night Poker had been cancelled in the UK and televised poker could no longer be found in Europe. In the US, the 1999, 2000, and 2001 World Series of Poker events were only broadcast in one-hour documentaries on the Discovery Networks.

In 1999, documentary filmmaker Steven Lipscomb produced and directed a documentary on the WSOP for the Discovery Channel. It was the first U.S. poker production funded entirely by a television network rather than the casino. When the 1999 WSOP aired, it doubled its audience over the hour time slot. Seeing the audience reaction, Lipscomb believed there was an untapped market and began pitching poker series ideas to cable and network television. Because poker had been on the air for over twenty years, with little viewer interest, broadcasters were unwilling to commit resources to put a series on the air.

In October 2001, Lipscomb wrote a business plan. Along with poker player Mike Sexton and poker business woman Linda Johnson, Lipscomb approached casino mogul and avid poker player, Lyle Berman, whose company Lakes Entertainment agreed to fund the World Poker Tour (WPT)—the first organized and televised tour of poker tournaments in the world.
